PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

1990 - Present

LAW OFFICES OF LEONARD B. ROSMAN – 9, Avenue Franklin Roosevelt, 75008 Paris. The firm specializes in the practice of international entertainment law, and particularly in international licensing of feature films and television programming. In addition, the firm's practice includes the following:

- The acquisition of underlying rights such as "best sellers" for motion pictures and television productions as well as licensing French feature film remake rights for the American and international markets.
- Raising production financing worldwide through various European tax incentive programs, regional funding, and governmental subsidies.
- Negotiating and drafting the following types of agreements: co-production; production (talent and crew); completion bonds and other forms of film insurance; charge and security assignments and their related facility letters and inter-party agreements; mortgage and assignment of copyright; laboratory access letters; and distribution and licensing agreements for all forms of exploitation, such as theatrical release, television distribution, video, merchandising, music, and other ancillary and derivative rights.
- Selling and licensing of film libraries for satellite platforms.
- Incorporating audiovisual production, distribution and holding companies, and servicing their related corporate and tax matters, including withholding and value added taxes.
- Initiating, litigating, and supervising international litigation strategies for numerous clients in the area of game show formats, breach of licensing agreements, infringement and unfair competition matters, and bankruptcy.

Our firm's international clientele includes major US studios, Telecom companies, French broadcasters, and leading independent producers and distributors (buyers and sellers) of various nationalities.
